

The purpose of my website is to make my own personal page where I can display the work that I have done throughout my time in college and also put myself out there with information about myself. As an Integrated Digital Media student it is key to have a website to show internships and jobs the work that I have done to be considered for possible jobs because this is essentially an online portfolio. Now that I am in my second year of college, I feel that I need to start building up my website so that when the time comes I can easily submit my website(portfolio) and show something that is personal because I am the one that created it. Besides that this is my form of art and I want to show it to everyone and be proud of everything that I have done or am going to do in the future. My personal website consists of a home, portfolio, contact, Resume and about me page. Throughout all of the pages my logo will be there, as well as a menu bar. One of my goals are to successfully make a simple yet appealing website where anyone who visits can easily find information about me or my work. Another goal is for me to not only built my personal website but also at the end have the basic skills of coding websites and go on to do more things with these skills. For the homepage I want to have some animation or something that just pops or stands out because I do not want to make a plain website but I also want to add a bit of graphic design to it.
